Intelligence Driven Solutions

We give our clients the edge with products and services that combine raw facts and in-country acumen with research and analysis informed by experienced intelligence perspectives that yield reliable and tangible information that promotes best practice decisions and sustainable success.

Besides a broad range of products that give clients a deeply nuanced and evolved perspective on wherever they are in Africa, we offer a range of products engineered to meet specific business needs with some broad categories that help you decide what kind of information you need:

Due Diligence

We use detailed public records interrogation and in-country source inquiries on entities to support a thorough and analytical investigative process that seeks to identify potential operational hot spots and help our clients predict and manage their own challenges before they manifest.

Operational & Environmental Research & Analysis

By drawing on our extensive African network, we monitor focal areas on our clients' radars and alert them to peripheral flash-points that could prove disruptive.

Intelligence Driven Support

By optimizing in-country experience and own networks we not only help our clients access markets safely and securely, but we ensure that they stay safe whilst assisting them meet and succeed their success expectations.

All these can be supported by partnered relationships that support client needs via updates, early warning, long-range scenario planning, feet-on-the-ground facilitation and close consultation as needed. Collectively it is an intelligence driven operational insurance package of the first degree.
